

SUGGESTIVE AND INSTRUCTIVE.

The laws of this Society are enacted as rules for the conduct of its affairs. All members are amenable to the provisions thereof. Strict compliance therewith conduces to the best interests of the Society and its membership. Evasion of its provisions results in misunderstandings, difficult in many cases to harmonize. No Head or Local Camp Officer is vested with authority to waive the least of the law's provisions.

The Clerks are the main-springs of the Society. They should know the law, and, in the discharge of their duty, insist upon its observance. The interests of the individual Neighbors are largely entrusted to the Clerk, and upon his shoulders is laid the responsibility of maintaining the Camp in good standing, and the keeping of its accounts correctly and in intelligent form.

If the Neighbor selected as Clerk has not the time at his disposal for the discharge of the duties incumbent upon the position, or if for any reason he be unqualified, he should, in the interest of his Camp, resign and permit the selection of one fully equipped for the work. Fraternal courtesy in insisting upon the observance of their obligation by the Neighbors, accuracy in the formulating of reports, and promptness in the discharge of duty is essential to the life of the Camp.

Assessments are required to be paid to the Clerk by the Neighbor in that month levied. Legal notice of all Assessments levied is given by publication in The Modern Woodman, prior to the first day of that month for which levied. The Neighbor has, therefore, full thirty days in which to pay his Clerk. At the close of business on the first day of each month, the Clerk should close his books for the preceding month. Any Neighbor who has not, by that time, paid that Assessment levied for the preceding month, stands suspended, and should be so reported on the Pass Report for such month. Subsequent payment of such Assessment by such Neighbor, reinstates, if accompanied by a "Warranty of Good Health," and the amount so paid should be accounted for as arrearages, and be remitted with the Pass Report for the next month, upon which note his reinstatement.

The obligation assumed at adoption by the Neighbor was to pay, within the limit of time provided by law, assessments levied. If he defaults in this particular, the responsibility therefor is his, and no fair-minded Neighbor will censure his Clerk for the discharge of his duty. Such Neighbor's remedy is reinstatement in manner and form provided by law. The Clerk is in position, and it is his duty, to formulate and forward his report immediately upon receipt by him of the Call. To delay report, awaiting payment from Neighbors delinquent, is contrary to law, and an injustice to those Neighbors who have paid. Further, such practice has heretofore and may again place Clerks in an embarrassing position, for should a delinquent Neighbor suddenly die, the Clerk must necessarily falsely report the deceased Neighbor in good standing, and thereby violate his obligation for the purpose of defrauding the general Society, or notify the beneficiary that the Neighbor, at death, was in suspension, and his certificate void, which situation possibly resulted from the past practice of permitting the Neighbor to pay his Assessments after the limit of time the law provides had expired, and the habit of reporting him under such payment as in good standing. Obviate the possibility of such contingency by complying strictly with the provisions of the law in the conduct of the business of the Camp.

The "Account with Neighbors," as per form given in this book, is designed for and intended to simplify the accounting by the Camp Clerk with the Neighbors of his Camp, and is similar to that employed for like purpose at the office of the Head Clerk.

Names of members of the Camp are first alphabetically entered, followed by other valuable memoranda. This, systematically and correctly done at the beginning, and continued, by the addition of the names of Neighbors subsequently admitted to membership, will obviate labor and trouble later on. Each page of the insert sheet is arranged for one full year's accounting, it thereby being necessary to record the names only each four years.

In keeping the accounts in form herein provided, credit the Neighbors with the amounts paid by entry under the Assessment number current on the day payment is made.

To illustrate: Neighbor John Doe (rate $1.00) in January pays Assessment No. 1. Enter the amount so paid opposite his name and in the column headed Assessment No. 1. In February he should pay No. 2, levied on the first day of that month, but defaults, and therefore stands suspended. Leave the space opposite his name under Assessment No. 2 blank forever. If in March he pays said Assessment and No. 3, credit him in Assessment column No. 3 with $2.00; should he not reinstate until April, then under No. 4 credit him with $3.00, leaving columns Nos. 2 and 3 blank. Should he in March, or in any other month, make two payments, then it would be necessary to make two entries in the same column.

By correctly following the foregoing directions the total footings of any column will give the exact amount due this office for the Assessment indicated at the top of such column.

A Neighbor is always liable for the Assessment current on the date his membership in a Camp ceases, except for suspension. Therefore you cannot (except for suspension) deduct a Neighbor from your membership statement without remitting for him in the Assessment current.

When a withdrawal card is granted, a Clerk should always collect and remit the Assessment current on the date borne by such card. To illustrate: If a card is granted January 3d, the Neighbor should pay Assessment No. 1, which remit with your Pass Report of that number, due this office in February.

A separate page should be set apart and used in the accounting with "Social" Neighbors. Never enter the names of "Social" in pages used in accounting with "Beneficiary" members.

Every dollar of the Camp funds, benefit or general, coming into the hands of the Clerk should be by him transferred into the possession of the Camp Banker, and his receipt be taken therefor. Such transfers should be made as often as twice each month.

Disbursements should only be made by the Banker, and on the order of the Clerk, countersigned by the Venerable Consul. If the law in this regard is observed, and proper entry of debit and credit be made in the account with the Excellent Banker, last pages of this book, the accounts can be correctly balanced at a moment's notice.

It is impossible to provide in a blank of this character for all the contingencies that may possibly arise, and, therefore, the Camp Clerk must depend upon his own resources to meet and provide for the few special matters not covered by the form herein contained.

Head Clerk, M. W. of A.

SUGGESTIONS TO CAMP CLERK. — Insert each officer's name after his title in first column. Should a change of officers occur, the new officer's name may be inserted, preferably in red ink, in the body of the roll just above the record of attendance of his predecessor. Indicate attendance by a slight verticle mark, thus: /, and absence by a. Then when an absence is excused it may be cancelled, thus: /a. The column for quarterly attendance is for use of camps which pay certain officers quarterly.
